

We Claim:

1. A method of fabricating a medical device comprising filaments, the filament fabrication comprising drying polymer pellets, melt extruding the pellets into filaments, stretching the filaments in at least one drawing step, and permitting the filaments to relax.